

myhomeinlisbon is not a hotel

But rather a special place for your stay in Lisbon. It is my home and I want it to be your home when you come. It is also the home of Lola, a stray dog I took in more than twelve years ago. She will surely welcome you when you arrive.

As in your house, all the rooms are different

Each has its own charm and features, with accents and personal touches from those who have lived in them. All have en-suite bathrooms (with a shower or bathtub). All have marvellous views of Lisbon, which can be enjoyed from different angles, whether from the bed, the bathroom or a sofa. The beds in all the rooms are large enough for two adults, but if there are 3 or 4 people in your party and you want to be together, one of our rooms has a small living room which can accommodate extra beds or a crib.

Unfortunately, we cannot ensure you will stay in a specific room

It's only possible if you are a group and need the large room for 3 or 4 people. If you have a favourite room, let us know and we will make every effort to honour your request, but we can't always guarantee it. Running this place from day to day is like working on a jigsaw puzzle - all the pieces have to fit just right.

Here you won't find a radio or a television

But you will hear the rooster crow. All our rooms are filled with books and magazines, and in the living room you'll find board games. We also provide free, unlimited access to the internet via wifi.

Each morning at 9am you'll hear the church bells of the Igreja da Graça

This is when things start happening in the morning and we begin to serve breakfast. But there is no rush, whenever you are ready is fine. If you need your breakfast earlier, please let us know in advance. We invite you to enjoy a mid-morning breakfast in the garden - in the winter sun or under the shade of the awning in the summer.

We strive to make the house comfortable for our guests

So that it recreates the laid-back pace of Lisbon. Our goal is that you feel at home here and that your stay with us is as enjoyable and pleasant as possible.
